

Photodon Monitor Hood Installation Instructions

1. Gently loosen, but DO NOT remove the 4 outside thumbscrews.

2. Holding the hood in one hand by the top, place the cord over the back of the monitor. Set the hood on top of the monitor with the bottom side of the 3 rear thumbscrews behind your monitor.

3. Adjust the hood by gently sliding each leg towards the middle to touch the side of the monitor, centering the middle piece.

4. Reach behind the monitor to pull the cord up and around the rear center thumbscrew. For each side of the monitor, reach behind the monitor, grab the cord, and pull it around the bottom corner to hold the hood in place.

5. Check to ensure that the middle piece of the hood seems centered on the monitor. If it needs adjustment, slide the middle piece in the appropriate direction while holding the legs in place. When the hood is centered, lightly tighten the thumbscrews.

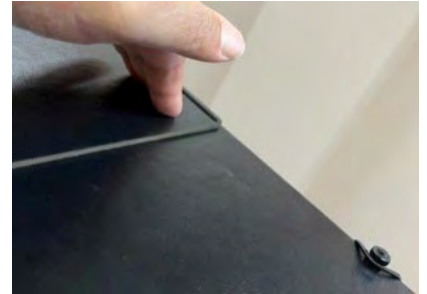

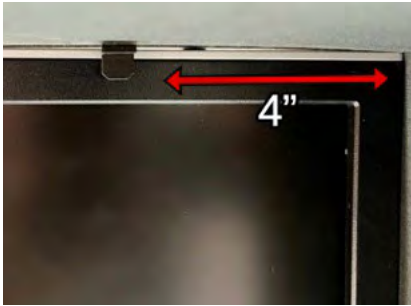

6. If the hood seems loose on the sides, adjust the cord at the cord locks to tighten the sides.

7. Examine the installation. Verify that the hood is sitting securely on the monitor and that the 3 rear thumbscrews are directly behind the monitor

8. Install the L-shaped support brackets. Remove the red tape from each bracket to reveal the adhesive. Place the brackets under the top of the hood, about 4" from the corner. Ensuring that the non-adhesive side rests completely against the monitor, press the adhesive side of each bracket firmly to the underside of the hood. Use your other hand as counter force on the top of the hood.

9. Sit in front of the monitor and check for light gaps at the top. Any light coming through can be blocked using the light-blocking foam on the underside of the hood, directly in front of the monitor. The foam can be trimmed to size before installing.
